Introduction

Durham Cathedral Archive: Cartulary IV

GB-0033-DCD-Cart.4ca. 1500

Extent: 309 ff.

Size: Approx. 13¾" x 10¼"

Repository: Durham University Library, Archives and Special Collections

Creator: Durham Priory

Language of material: Latin

This cartulary includes documents dated 1504 (ff.244v-245r) and 1511 (f.273r-v). The appearance of the hands suggests that the cartulary was compiled as a single undertaking, but it may be that the first part was bound up separately: on f.236 a note refers to a document copied on ff.91r-92r as being "in medio in novo cartuario".

The contents comprise documents relating mostly to property in Durham and Northumberland and are entered roughly in Spec. order (1-13.Spec) with a section of addenda at the end from f.272v of mostly 1-9.Spec.

Accession details

Placed in the University's care by the Dean and Chapter of Durham in 1948.

Copyright and copying

Permission to make any published use of material from the collection must be sought in advance from Durham Cathedral Library (library@durhamcathedral.co.uk). The Library will assist where possible with identifying copyright owners, but responsibility for ensuring copyright clearance rests with the user of the material.

Form of citation

The form of citation should be GB-0033-DCD-Cart4, or the collection title Durham Cathedral Muniments: Cartulary 4, and the folio number.

To order items in the searchroom, use the collection reference code(s), derived by removing the repository code (GB-0033-), followed by the reference number. Citing the section of the finding aid is useful.

f.1r 6 February 1411 [1412]

Commission, by John [of Hemingbrough] prior of Durham, to John Durham chaplain and John Wark, to dispose of the fruits of Holy Trinity church Berwick and first of all to pay William Weardale the vicar the portion of £20 a year laid down in the ordinance for that church, with arrears, following William's complaint over the failure of John Aycliffe prior of Coldingham, deputed by the prior and chapter, to do so; with revocation of the commission to John.

Dated: Durham

f.1r-v [Probably 1300 x 1305 while Richard Kellawe was subprior.]

Letter, [by the prior (?) of Holy Island (?)], to R[ichard] Kellawe, J[ohn] of Barnard Castle and H[ugh] de Monte Alto, fellow monks [of Durham], reporting that for the fortnight before the visit of the official of the archdeacon of Northumberland to the church of Holy Island on the vigil of James [24 July] it had been stated by all the monks that if he came into the priory as a guest and outsider (advena), and not as an ordinary, without claiming anything in the name of visitation, we would receive him with honour, on account of which he took himself to somebody's guest-house in the vill, with no response being made when he sought procuration the next day; and asking for a speedy reply to their seeking the counsel of the chapter of Durham, lest he [the official] should impose an interdict; further reporting that the vicar of Hartburn plans to proceed against the church of [Holy] Island and your [other churches] in Northumberland for non- payment of the tenth said to have been granted to the bishop, and asking to be sent a copy of the chapter of Durham's appeal to the pope against this exaction to enable me to move for the church of [Holy] Island and you similarly for your [churches].

Pleas at Durham before Ralph Eure, Richard of Norton, Robert of Wycliffe and James Strangeways, justices of the bishop, Friday before Matthew 6 Henry 5 [16 September 1418]

William Chancellor, chancellor of the bishop of Durham, handed over a record:

Pleas before Thomas [Langley] bishop of Durham in his chancery, Thursday in Easter week 12 [Langley: 1 April 1418]

An inquest, before Ralph Eure knight, John Newton clerk, William Chancellor, John Thoraby clerk and Richard Buckley clerk, having found that without the bishop's licence William Hylton knight alienated to Peter Tilliol knight the manor of Follingsby, held of the bishop in chief, John Newton, Roger of Thornton and Thomas Pittington, tenants of that manor, protested that they knew of no alienation and that the manor was held of the prior of Durham in socage; John Aslakby, for the bishop, stated that the inquest was correct, as he was prepared to verify, similarly for their part John, Roger and Thomas; Friday before Matthew was set for the plea and the sheriff ordered to summon a panel of 24 men unconnected to John, Roger or Thomas to testify whether the manor was held of the bishop in chief. The jurors failed to come and the Tuesday after the Circumcision was set, when, for want of jurors, Thursday in Easter week was set. The process continued until Thursday in Easter week 14 [Langley: 1420], when the jurors testified that the manor of Follingsby was held of the prior of Durham and not of the bishop in chief.

Notarial instrument recording that on 26 February 1448 in Bishop Wearmouth parish-church before Mr John Norton, vicar-general of the bishop of Durham and principal official of the consistory court of Durham, chosen to adjudicate the dispute over the tithes of fish and salmon in the River Wear at Tripden otherwise Lambton taken on the north side between the prior and chapter of Durham, by reason of their parish-church of Monk Wearmouth, and William Bedall rector of Washington, John Gateshead, monk of Durham and proctor of the prior and chapter, and John Godkin priest, proctor of William Bedall, appeared, with the former presenting documents and producing as witnesses John Chambre senior and Robert Johnson, both of Boldon parish, who deposed that Tripden lay within the limits of Monk Wearmouth parish, that before the Maryflood [8 September 1400] the tithes of hay taken from a fine meadow there by the lord of Hylton and his ministers went to Monk Wearmouth church, with John himself having made hay there and seen the tithes go to Wearmouth church, but now with sand and deposits from the flood rendered sterile, that the flow of the river was washing away the bank, and that fish and salmon were not taken there before the arrival of John Tomson fisherman, who fished from Bonisferry to a place beside Barmston park where he put up the building for keeping the fish, held at farm from the lord of Hylton and occupied by him for many years; for the right of rectors of Washington to continue taking tithes on fish caught in the parish of Monk Wearmouth and kept in the parish of Washington the rector's proctor put forward no effective case, and the right to the tithes was awarded to the prior and chapter.

Notarial instrument recording the secret and separate examination by Mr John Lilford LLD, official of the consistory of Durham, of Thomas Atkinson of Southwick, John Keid of Gateshead, Robert Wake of Monk Wearmouth, Richard Atkinson of Whitburn, John Bartram of Southwick and Robert Wake of Fulwell in Monk Wearmouth parish- church on 18 August 1459, and on 7 September of Thomas Nicholson of Hylton in St Michael's chapel of Walknoll in Newcastle, produced for the part of the prior and convent of Durham, proprietors of Monk Wearmouth church, in a case over tithes in the consistory between the prior and convent as plaintiffs and Robert Stainton chaplain of Hylton as defendant. On the statement of complaint by the prior and chapter's proctor that, apart from those specified in an agreement between Germanus prior of Durham and Alexander baron of Hylton (see Carte 177 f.42v), they had received from time out of mind the tithes of the parish of their church of Monk Wearmouth and in particular a corn tithe called "litell teende" from the vill and territory of Hylton, but that in 1458 Robert Stainton, chaplain of Hylton chapel, dependent on the mother church of Wearmouth, had refused that tithe and others, against which the proctor sought sentence by the official of the consistory of Durham, with recompense of 20s. and expenses; Thomas Atkinson, aged 60 and more, stated that the prior and convent had received the tithes from the lands in the parish of Monk Wearmouth from of old and that they were known to have the right to "litelteende".

John Keid, aged 50 and more, agreed with Thomas Atkinson and stated that 20 years before John Birtley, monk and master of Wearmouth, leased to Richard Atkinson [of] Whitburn and Robert Wake of Wearmouth all the tithes of the parish except those due by an agreement to the chaplain of Hylton for three years, and they collected them, including "litelteend"; that after two years the master held the tithes in hand, but Lawrence chaplain of Hylton claimed "litelteend" by reason of the agreement mentioned, and, to prevent strife between the parties, Robert baron of Hylton, with their consent, had those tithes collected and kept by Thomas Nicholson then living in the house of John Hedworth at Southwick, to be restored to whichever party a diligent enquiry of the older local inhabitants found it to belong, and the baron then summoned Robert Johnson, John Chambre, William Mallard and John Robinson, recently of Boldon, who testified that the proprietors of the church had the right to the tithes as of old, and so the baron ordered those tithes to be handed over to John Birtley, master of Wearmouth, who sent the juror [John Keid], then in his service, with a wagon, to bring them to the master's barn, but Thomas Nicholson refused to hand them over without the baron's express mandate, which the master obtained, and then they were taken to the master's barn; that the juror collected those tithes in the master's name for two full years without interference and the baron of Hylton then leased the tithes of Hylton from Thomas Bradbury, master of Wearmouth, and held them until his death; and that the said Robert Johnson and John Chambre of Boldon, then 60 years old, had told the juror that the proprietors had received those tithes for all their time.

Robert Wake, aged 60 and more, agreed with John Keid, and added that "litellteende" came from 10 acres east of the demesne land (gleba dominicalis) called Hawkslaw, 4 acres north of the demesne land called Langflat, and 10 acres west of the Main Baulk and butting on two headlands.

John Bertram, aged 70 and more, agreed with Robert Wake, except that he did not know about the 10 acres.

Robert Wake, aged 40 and more, agreed with Robert Wake.

Thomas Nicholson, aged 60 and more, agreed with John Keid, and added that he accompanied the master of Wearmouth to the baron of Hylton when the baron gave the order for those tithes to be delivered to the master, saying that he knew by diligent enquiry that the right to those belonged to the proprietors.

Sealed by Mr John Lilford.

Notary: Thomas Wolhouse, of the York diocese, registrar of the consistory of Durham.

Grievances of the chaplain of Hylton and of the master of Monk Wearmouth.

The master or keeper of the parish-church of Monk Wearmouth complained [1] that Lawrence Martin, chaplain of Hylton chapel, appropriated to himself the tithes of corn and hay from the land held by him in hand and not from the lord [of Hylton]'s house for three years, contrary to the agreement, ordinance and foundation of the chapel (see Carte 177 f.42v); [2] that Lawrence usurped the candles and offerings received from the house of the lord of Hylton, his servants and staff at Candlemas, contrary to the agreement; [3] that Lawrence usurped the tithes of piglets and chicks from the vill of Hylton, contrary to the agreement; [4] that Lawrence usurped the tithes of salmon caught in the River Wear belonging to the mother church; and [5] that Lawrence usurped the tithes of wool, milk products and calves of his own animals for three years, contrary to the agreement.

Grievances against the chaplain of Hylton chapel by John Birtley and his predecessors as masters of Wearmouth [actually vice-versa].

First that under the agreement between Germanus prior and the convent of St Cuthbert's church and Alexander baron of Hylton (see Carte 177 f.42v) all the tithes from Alexander's own home and the lands of his manor should go to the chaplain, except that the lord of Hylton should give each year to the mother church one thrave of oats for each ox of his own ploughs, but John Birtley took all the tithes of wool, lambs, foals and calves of the demesne.

That contrary to the agreement John Birtley usurped the tithes of a fishery bounding on the land of the manorial demesne called Rydyng, since by custom the tithes of every fishery in that water should be paid with respect to the land bounding them.

That contrary [to the agreement] he usurped the tithes of beans from 4 acres of the carucate called Trublardland and of its pasture.

That contrary [to the agreement he usurped] the tithes of 24 acres called Hardacres and 4 acres called the Westflat belonging to the manorial demesne which William baron of Hylton stated before his death to belong to the chapel and chaplain of Hylton.

[Replies by the chaplain to the master's five complaints above]

[1] Lawrence replied that time out of mind the tithes from that land had not been paid to the master, as a privilege confirmed.

[2] The chaplain denied it.

[3] The chaplain stated that he had received no tithes of pigs except of two piglets from the lord's home and one chicken from a tenement belonging to the land of the church.

[4] The chaplain stated that the tithes of salmon belonged to the chapel and not the mother church in accordance with the agreement and the custom that the tithes of every fishery in that water should be paid with respect to the land bounding them, and that that fishery bounded the land of the manorial demesne called Rydyng, the tithes of which belonged to the chapel and chaplain of Hylton by virtue of the agreement.

[5] It was answered that as firstly an ineffective reply [?].

Inquest held at Hylton, 17 June 1438, in the presence of William baron of Hylton, Robert of Hylton his son and heir, John Fishburn monk of Durham, and Mr William Doncaster vicar of St Oswald's Durham, between John [Wessington] prior of Durham and William Bingham chaplain of Hylton chapel, to establish the limits, divisions and number of the acres of demesne and other lands from which the chaplain used to receive tithes, with John Chambre, Robert Johnson, Robert Kelloeman, Robert Hesleden and William Mallard of Boldon stating on the oath that William Bingham received throughout his time all the tithes of corn and hay from all the demesne lands of the manor of Hylton specified below.

Examination of Thomas Nicholson of Hylton, Robert Wake of Wearmouth [and another] for the tithes from Hylton [c.1459].

Thomas Nicholson, aged 60, stated that the tithes called "litleteend" in the field of Hylton belonged to the master of Monk Wearmouth and not to the chaplain of Hylton or anyone else; that dissension over this between John Birtley master of Wearmouth and Lawrence chaplain of Hylton 17 years before was quieted by those tithes remaining in the witness' hands until the matter was settled by Robert Johnson, John Chambre of Boldon, John Robinson of Hylton and Robert Kelloeman of Boldon, arbitrators chosen by the parties, who adjudged those tithes to belong to the master, and Robert of Hylton knight then ordered the witness to hand over those tithes to John Birtley, which he did; on the question whether the master or the chaplain received those tithes in the intervening period, that the master leased them, with the corn tithes of Hylton, to the baron of Hylton recently deceased down to his death; on the question of public report, that those tithes were known to belong to the master and nobody else, insomuch as William of Hylton the last baron ordered Robert Stainton chaplain of Hylton not to meddle with them, recognizing the master's right in the time of his very grave illness.

Robert Wake of Wearmouth, aged 60 and more, stated that he himself had the "litleteend" tithes at farm from Thomas Lawson bursar of Durham, who had them for the use of the monastery of Durham, together with the corn tithes of Hylton, with interference from the chaplain of Hylton; and that John Birtley and Thomas Bradbury, masters of Wearmouth, each had those tithes in their own hands at various times; agreed with Thomas Nicholson in all other particulars.

Richard Atkinson, aged 50 and more, stated that he and almost all his progenitors originated in the parish of Monk Wearmouth and that he, with Robert Wake above, held the "litleteinde" tithes at farm from Thomas Lawson bursar of Durham, to whom they belonged by reason of his office without obstruction by the chaplain of Hylton; that he had never heard from his progenitors that those tithes belonged to anyone other than the master of Monk Wearmouth, and that masters had been in possession of those tithes or leased them out to the time of the present interference by Robert Stainton chaplain of Hylton; agreed with Thomas Nicholas in all other particulars.

Compilation on the tithes and offerings belonging to the parish-church of Monk Wearmouth from the chaplain and others of Hylton.

Tithes of the wages of the baron of Hylton's servants are detained by the chaplain of the chapel there contrary to an agreement (see Carte 177 f.42v ?).

One thrave of oats for each ox of the baron's ploughs is withdrawn contrary to the agreement (see Carte 177 f.42v) since the demesne lands are at farm to various tenants of the vill to the prejudice of the mother church.

The tithes from the demesne lands at farm, replacing that thrave of oats, are withdrawn and taken by the chaplain to the prejudice of the mother church.

The tithes from the lands assigned to the chapel and the other small tithes from the chaplain's animals are withdrawn and kept by the chaplain.

The chaplain, not content with the tithes of a carucate that was Tublard's, tried to take those from various lands, namely Chamberlainland, Russelland, Paresland, Duckettland, contrary to the said agreement.

The chaplain detained the candles offered in Hylton chapel at Candlemas by the baron's servants.

The tithes of salmon caught in the fishery called Hukeyare are withdrawn.

The tithes of the agistment of the field called Risum are detained.

The tithes of 4 bovates that were Tublard's granted to the master by the said agreement are withdrawn.

The chaplain detains tithes called "lilitleynd" recovered in a contested case.

The master further seeks a plot of land granted from the baron of Hylton's demesne by Robert Hylton for keeping his tithes of corn and hay at the western exit of the vill of Hylton on the north, 6 perches long and 4 perches wide.

Evidences for the severality of the prior and convent of Durham on Bearpark moor against the tenants of the Old Borough [Durham], citing the account of the removal of St Cuthbert from Chester-le-Street to Durham by Bishop Aldhun in 995 and the assistance given by Earl Uthred [cf. Symeon, Historia Dunelmensis Ecclesiae III, 1-2], before which there was no Old Borough; noting the absence of the site of the Old Borough in the charter by William [of St Calais] bishop of Durham dated 1082 [1.1.Pont.2]; quoting from his confirmation dated 1093 [1.1.Pont.1a] with respect to the land on the west side of Durham across the Wear, which the prior and convent made into a garden, now called the Cellarer orchard and the Almoner orchard, mentioned in the bulls by Eugenius [III] pope dated 1145 [1146], quoted [PU II no. 51], Adrian [IV] pope dated 1156 [1157. PU II no. 94], and Alexander [III] pope dated 1162 [PU II no. 107], and in the charter by King Henry II, quoted [3.1.Reg.1a], but with no mention made in these of the township of the Old Borough among the villis named;

quoting from the charter by King Richard I dated 1195 [1196. As in 2.3.Reg.3] with respect to the land and wood on the west side of Durham across the Wear as far as the Browney and the vill with garden on that side of the Wear, repeated in subsequent royal confirmations, and in bulls by Celestine [III] pope dated 1196 [PU II no. 278] and by Innocent III pope dated 1200 [1201], quoted [as Cart.Vet. ff.31r-33v]; asserting that before 1195 the prior and convent set up on land beside the Browney a grange called Bearpark for ploughs and vehicles with a vaccary and sheepfold and, having no land beyond the Browney, assigned the whole adjoining moor for the grange's pasture, so that it was called Bearpark Moor and also lands subsequently approwed, such as 10 acres now in the bishop's hand, 5 acres in a close beside the bishop's land above his quarry in 1347 and 13 acres in a close north of the road from Durham to Relley found in the prior and convent's ancient rentals under Bearpark Moor; that the site of the battle of Durham [i.e. Neville's Cross] was on Bearpark Moor, as shewn by a copy in the prior's register of a letter sent to the bishop; that in the charter by Peter Dring giving it the close on Redhill is between Durham and Bearpark; asserting that the moor in question is the moor of Bearpark not of the Old Borough; asserting that before the Convenit [1229, 1.4.Pont.] on the part of the land given by Bishop William [of St Calais] nearer the Wear the prior and convent put up buildings for a praetorium and a gaol and gave to various tenants in burgage parcels of land on the east [of the road ?] from the south from the Almoner's orchard northwards to the Millburn without any part of the said moor or pasture; that subsequently the prior and convent approwed and enclosed from the land nearer the burgages various parcels for their own use, such as Almoner's orchard, Holcroft and Codesley with wood, and granted in fee to various tenants for cultivation other parcels, such as Bellasis and Codesley south and north of Chiltonpool with land below and on Redhough, the land on Redhough passing by escheat to the bishop, with the tenants permitted by special grace sufficient common pasture on the said moor, namely all the moor east of the highway to the Millburn towards the north, which the tenants separated from the prior and convent's moor of Bearpark and enclosed by an ancient dike running along beside that highway, and also the whole waste from the said close towards the south to the bounds of the common of Elvet, and with the prior and convent still free to approwe the said moor and waste; that they first approwed 10 acres, now in the bishop's hand, mentioned in the rental for 1312 "From William Ekkels for land in the moor of Bearpark, but in [13]14 "From William Ekkels for 10 acres of the moor of Bearpark" and likewise for [13]15 and [13]16; that for [?: de] the said close of 13 acres they approwed before and after {1348 interlin. } the pretended reseisin of Alice Slade and other tenants of the Old Borough, for [?: de] the aforesaid 5 acres and 3 acres {1348 interlin. } north of Codesley called Garbrade, in which John Potter, burgess of the Old Borough, claimed common as belonging to his free tenement, which the prior recovered against him by an assize [see 2.6.Spec.44] before John Mowbray and other justices of the bishop on Monday after Matthew 15 Thomas [Hatfield: 27 September 1359] "1360" [!], which he would not have done if the pretended reseisin, and the record made of it, had been true, but many of the pretended makers of the record were burgesses of the Old Borough and others their relatives, nor would three justices and the chancellor have been on the moor in person to see the pretended reseisin since delivery would have been made in the chancery; that, although the date when the grange with vaccary and sheepfold was set up at Bearpark is uncertain, in the valuation in an ancient register of the prior for the Holy Land subsidy imposed in 1187 Bearpark is entered with half a carucate and 12 acres at 3s., a carucate being valued at 6s. [as SS 198 p. 20, dateable c.1230 ?, from B.L. MS Stowe 930], and in the Durham martyrology, containing many memoranda, and an ancient register of the almoner's office is recorded the exchange of the almoner's vaccary of Bearpark for Moorhouses in the time of Prior Bertram, who died c.1199 [!], quoted [Almoner's Small Cartulary p. 77, also Reg.l.i ff.68-69], with Bearpark mentioned in the grant by Robert [Stichill] bishop of Durham to the prior and convent of wood beyond the Browney [4.2.Pont.2], and the prior and convent's vaccary beside Milneside in the grant by Nicholas [Farnham] bishop [of Durham] of Halywelside and Milneside [cf. 2.1.Pont.12 and 13], showing that they had Bearpark many years before any land beyond the Browney; that it was called the Old Borough to differentiate it from the borough set up in Elvet in the time of Bishop Hugh [of Le Puiset] and known as the new borough, both being of the prior's fee, just as Elvet Bridge built by Bishop Hugh according to the Gesta episcoporum [SS 9 p. 12] is called the new bridge, with the earlier bridge called the old bridge;

that Antony [Bek] bishop [of Durham] and various tenants in Durham disseised the prior of the said moor where the tenants of approwed land in the Old Borough had pasture, which the prior recovered before the king's justices, and then obtained quit-claims from the said tenants of the arable land, e.g. one by Peter del Crook [2.6.Spec.32], quoted in full and showing that the moor recovered was the whole moor of the Old Borough called Bearpark Moor, separated from the other part of the moor by the old dike, so that the claim by Alice Slade should extend to that part and not beyond; that it was burgesses of Durham and Framwelgate with arable lands, some of whom were named in the plea against [Bishop] Antony and some in the quit-claims, who claimed the recovered parcel of moor, and not burgesses holding burgages without arable land, and so only burgesses of the Old Borough with arable land could claim common pasture, in line with the law of the realm;

two quit-claims [2.6.Spec.33 and 2.6.Spec.36], both quoted in full; assize (in 1305 marg.) to determine whether Antony [Bek] bishop of Durham, William of St Botolph, Roger of Esh, James Spicer, Gilbert Goldsmith, Peter of Bolton, William son of Ranulf, Richard of Chilton, Walter of Brafferton, Thomas once servant of Emma of Kelloe, John son of John Bille, Margaret widow of John Howden and Julian widow of Robert of Pockerley disseised Richard [de Hoton] of his free tenement in the Old Borough Durham, namely four score acres of moor and pasture; James Spicer, Peter of Bolton, Richard of Chilton and Walter of Brafferton appeared, with Peter answering for the others as their bailiff, and claimed that the tenements were in Chester[-le-Street], Framwelgate and Durham, not in the Old Borough as in the writ; if in the Old Borough, John son of John Bille, as tenant of 6 acres of it, stated that his father died with the 6 acres in his demesne in fee, and that he then inherited them; for the bishop and those holding the rest of the moor the bailiff stated that the bishop found his church seised of the tenements without disseising the prior; James [Spicer], Richard of Chilton, Walter of Brafferton and Peter of Bolton denied any injury or disseisin; the jurors stated that the tenements were in the Old Borough, that John son of John Bille did not succeed his father in the said 6 acres, that the bishop did not find his church seised of the tenements but, with all the others, disseised the prior, to damages of £4; the prior therefore recovered his seisin, with damages of £4;

note that those named in the said case were free tenants in the Borough of Durham and Framwelgate and in the Old Borough with various parcels of arable in the field beside the moor that was recovered;

assize before N[icholas] Gategang and others as exemplified in 3.3.Pont.4;

Statement of complaint on the part of the prior of Durham in a case over detention of tithes of coal in the chapelry of Witton [Gilbert].

[Notarial instrument recording that] before the official of the bishop of Durham or any commissary, the prior and convent of Durham's proctor against Robert Alanson of Durham and John Natrass parishioner of Witton claimed that since the foundation and endowment of Witton chapel all tithes, and especially tithes of coal, within the chapel's bounds belonged to the chapel and the prior and convent and that the prior and convent, as rectors of the chapel, had them peacefully from time out of mind, but that since last Pentecost Robert and John had taken all the tithes of coal within the chapelry; and sought sentence against them and damages of 40s.

Compilation for the right to receive the tenth scoop of coal of the field of Broom against Richard Cowherd or others.

For the right of the prior and chapter of Durham to seek the tithes of coal of Richard Cowherd at Broomhall there is not only common right but also the custom of the area and various sentences and their peaceful possession of tithes of coal from Broomhall, Broom and Aldingrange from the pits of John Fossor senior, Nicholas Coke, Thomas Hexham and Roger Cowherd down to 14[blank], when William Barry hostiller [taking office in 1406], considering that Richard Cowherd provided 13 score chalders of coal a year for the monastery for only 20s., remitted the tithe, without the prior and convent's knowledge, to a value of 20s. a year;

in 1410, [14]11 and [14]12 coal for the monastery came partly from the prior's own pit on land once belonging to John Cawood at Broom and partly by purchase from Richard Cowherd, William March and John Fossor, as shewn in the accounts of John Mores as bursar; in 1413, [14]14 and [14]15 partly from Richard Cowherd and partly from the prior of Finchale's pit, but in [14]16 partly by purchase from Richard Cowherd and partly from William Barry, William Millot and William March, lessees from Ralph Eure steward [of the bishop of Durham] of land of the bishop's waste for digging a pit between Broom, Relley and Baxterfordwood, as shewn in the accounts of William Drax as bursar; in [14]17 and [14]18 by purchase partly from the prior of Finchale, partly from William March, partly from W[illiam] Barry and partly from Richard Cowherd, as shown in the accounts of Henry Helay as bursar, and in [14]18 Richard Cowherd paid the hostiller 6s. 8d. for tithes of coal and no more since he delivered little coal that year because the pits of the bishop [of Durham], the prior of Durham and the prior of Finchale delivered to Durham and the area;

with the pit on the bishop's land ceasing the prior produced coal from his own land for the monastery and then Richard Cowherd, considering the prior's pit to be much nearer Durham and the coal more readily sold than his own, offered 13 score chalders of coal a year to the monastery for seven years with payment to him of 20s. a year; after the seven years the prior produced coal on his own until Richard entered the same arrangement for a further seven years, with the prior undertaking not to sell coal within a mile of Durham and William Barry the hostiller allowing Richard, unknown to the prior and convent, to pay no tithes of coal, which were worth 6 or 7 marks a year, as in the time of Roger Cowherd and John Fossor, or other tithes apart from corn and hay, which were worth with the tithes of coal 10 marks a year;

Henry Helay hostiller treated Richard for seven years as William Barry had done, and for the last five years Richard paid only 1 mark for tithes of coal and nothing for other tithes except corn and hay;

the prior conceded to Richard by indenture a parcel of Altonfield previously in the bursar's hands worth 26s. 8d. a year, a close called Almonerclose worth 26s. 8d. a year, a close by Stotgate to the east once held by John Dale for 20s. a year, and the herbage of Bearpark Moor worth at least 100s. a year, in return for 50 stone of cheese a year worth 6d. a stone, but in fact not worth 3d., and 10 stone of butter worth 12d. a stone, which in many years was not all received, worth in all 35s., with the closes, herbage and the 20s. allowed to Richard for producing coal totalling £9 13s. 4d., or deducting the 35s., £7 18s. 4d., apart from the unpaid tithes worth at least £6 a year, making a grand total to Richard for delivering coal to the prior of £13 18s. 4d. a year; when he began to produce coal for the prior Richard had be agreement a coal-pit on the prior's land from which he supplied Durham and the area for a long time;

Richard took without the prior's authorization or knowledge many things needed for his pits, and the prior allowed him to have in Bearpark park many animals, namely oxen, cows, horses, pigs, sometimes sheep and goats, causing grave damage, when by virtue of the grant of custody of that park he should have no animals; Richard took in many years without the knowledge of the prior or his officers the great part of the bark and branches of the trees [in the park ?] and gave it away or sold it; Richard's servants frequently broke the stone walls of Bearpark park, the dikes of closes and hedges of meadows and pastures in the park and brought in Richard's animals, particularly pigs, every year, to the prior and convent's grave damage; for want of Richard's custody foresters cut down trees in the park and took them away, to the prior and convent's grave damage;

the coal that the prior received from Richard Cowherd did not compensate for the damage; for the right to seek the tithes of coal there are authorities and canonical decrees: the homilies of Gregory [the Great], cited [in Gratian's Decretum] at Dist. V, Augustine at XVI quaest. i, Malachi at XVI quaest. i, Jerome, Extravagantes III {also in addition, f.100v lower margin}, [William de Pagula's] Summa summarum, Ray[mond of Penafort], John [of Freiburg]'s Summa confessorum; for the accepted custom in the bishopric of Durham of paying tithes of coal there are first the ordinance of the vicarage of Merrington (as in 2.6.Spec.78a f.2); second the decree of the official of Durham found in the missal of the high altar of Brancepeth church (as in 2.6.Spec.78a f.2); third the sentence by the bishop of Durham's official [4.6.Elemos.11]; fourth a charter by Peter of Tursdale over payment of tithes of coal to Kelloe church: Acknowledgement, by Peter of Tursdale, of the right of the rector and brothers of Sherburn hospital to tithes from a coalmine in their parish of Kelloe, following their request against him before the official of the archdeacon of Durham, with agreement that during his lifetime he should pay them half a mark a year whenever he leases out the mine, and after his death his heirs the full tithe, to which he has given his pledge. Witnesses: Richard of Farnham, prior, and the brothers; Robert de Fonte, Ralph of Durham, William Bole, chaplains; John of Laxton, Adam Russell, Ralph of Kepier, Stephen, Walter of Winchester, clerks, and others.

Sealing clause. and also the suit contested before the official of Durham in the consistory on 8 Id. March 1344 [1345] between Richard of Shutford vicar of Kelloe, plaintiff, and Thomas of Kelloe, living in Tursdale, defendant, in which the plaintiff's statement (quoted) claimed that the tithe of coal from the whole parish of Kelloe belonged to the vicar as of old, but that from Easter 1344 Thomas had refused to pay tithes of coal from Tursdale, estimated at 2 marks; on Non. April before the official's commissary, John of Durham, the defendant accepted the statement; on 7 Id. April the official gave sentence (recited) for the vicar, issued on 5 Id. April 1345;

for the prior and convent's possession of the tithes of coal from Broomhall there are the accounts of various hostillers, with extracts quoted (ff. 102r-103r), cf. 2.6.Spec.78a and 78b; memorandum of the measurement made by John [Wessington] prior of Durham between Christmas 1436 and Candlemas [2 February 1437] of his fields at Aldingrange with a rope of 7 ells, covering the upper field below the field of Broom and running from Baxterfordwood to the west side of the Wymer, the lower field beside Baxterfordwood and adjoining the bank of the Browney, the field beside Aldingrange, the knoll near Aldingrange manor adjoining the bank of the Browney, the selions where the aqueduct and new [coal]pits of the prior are, the prior's land in the upper part between Richard Cowherd's close on the west and his land on the east and abutting on the south John Fossor's land, the selions where the aqueduct and pits made by Roger Cowherd are (details left blank), the selions west of the the pits made by Roger Cowherd, and the selions claimed by Richard Cowherd west from the Wymer to the prior's land as belonging to his place of Broomhall.

Pleas before Ralph Eure and his fellows as justices of the bishop [of Durham]

Assize to examine whether William of Billingham disseised John of Binchester chaplain, keeper of the chapel of St Bartholomew by Durham, of his free tenement in the Crook beside Durham of 10 acres of land, 6 acres of meadow and 2 acres of pasture. John de Aslakby, answering for William as his bailiff, said nothing to stay the assize and the jurors stated that John was seised of the property in the right of his chapel, like his predecessors from time out of mind, in severality, until William put his animals on to it, wrongly claiming common there, and causing damages of 6s. 8d., that the disseisin was not done by force, and that William Graystanes chaplain, keeper of the chapel, was seised of the property in the time of King Richard [II]; John recovered his seisin against William, and damages of 6s. 8d.

[Copies of:]

William Chancellor, chancellor of the bishop [of Durham], handed to the bishop's justices on Tuesday before Thomas ap. 19 Thomas [Langley: 19 December 1424] a record: Pleas before the bishop. An inquest on 30 August 13 [Langley: 1418] before Ralph Eure knight and John Newton clerk, commissioned by the bishop, and returned into the bishop's chancery, having found that John of Hemingbrough recently prior of Durham acquired in 9 [Langley: 1414-1415] a messuage and 2 bovates of land in East Rainton from Donald Hesilrig worth 30s. a year without the bishop's licence, John Binchester chaplain stated that Donald, son and heir of Robert de Hesilrig and his wife Christiana, was seised in fee of the property and granted it to John, subsequently quit-claiming it, and that he was removed from it following the inquest, and asked for the bishop's hands to be removed from it; John Aslakby, for the bishop, stated that the prior had acquired the property, and asked for an enquiry; likewise John Binchester; and Tuesday before Thomas ap. next [mid December] was set, with the sheriff ordered to summon 24 jurors from East Rainton.

The case continued to Thursday in Easter week, when the jurors declared that Donald granted the property to John Binchester, without the prior acquiring it, and he was therefore restored, with the revenues since his removal.

Dated: Durham chancery Thursday in Easter week 18 [Langley: 27 April 1424]

Writ, by Thomas [Langley] bishop of Durham to the sheriff of Durham, to produce at pleas of the crown at Durham on Tuesday before Thomas ap. next [19 December] 24 men from East Rainton with at least 8s. of land or rents to declare if John of Hemingbrough recently prior of Durham acquired one messuage [and] 2 bovates of land in East Rainton from Donald Hesilrig without the bishop's licence.

Per manus: William Chancellor, the bishop's chancellor, 20 September 19 Thomas [Langley: 1424]

Writ, by Thomas [Langley] bishop of Durham, to the sheriff of Durham, to produce before his justices at Durham on Thursday in Easter week John Hadham and others to declare if John of Hemingbrough recently prior of Durham acquired one messuage and 2 bovates of land in East Rainton from Donald Hesilrig without the bishop's licence.

Witness: James Strangeways

Dated: Durham, 19 December 19 Thomas [Langley: 1424]

Writ, by Thomas [Langley] bishop of Durham, to Robert Eure his eschaetor in County Durham, following the taking into the bishop's hands of one messuage and 2 bovates of land in East Rainton as a result of an inquest on 30 August 13 [Langley: 1418] before Ralph Eure knight and John Newton clerk, commissioned by the bishop, and returned into the bishop's chancery, finding that John of Hemingbrough recently prior of Durham acquired the property, worth 30s. a year, from Donald Hesilrig without the bishop's licence, the claim by John Binchester chaplain to the property, upheld by an inquest as having been granted to him by Donald Hesilrig, son and heir of Robert Hesilrig and Christiana his wife, and subsequently quit-claimed to John by Donald, without the prior acquiring it, and the judgement that the bishop's hand should be removed from the property and that it should be handed over to John, with the revenues from the intervening period, ordering him to implement the judgement.

Witness: James Strangeways

Evidences for certain pieces of land and meadow belonging to the manor of Henknowl. Against Hugh of Westwick unjustly occupying Allercrook, containing 2 acres of land and meadow, 1 rood of meadow called the Sykett, Smithaugh, containing 2 acres of meadow, and Polehaugh, containing 3 acres of meadow:

Geoffrey son of John of Henknowl leased his manor of Henknowl to Patrick of Kelloe and his wife Cecilia in 17 Edward [II: 1323-1324], handing over to them an old list of the manor's many parcels of meadow, including Allercrook, Smithaugh and Polehaugh and they leased Polehaugh to John of Weighton, Smithaugh to Thomas of the bakehouse, and Allercrook to Robert Mumming, occupying the said meadow in this way for at least 22 years; after the death of Patrick and Cecilia William of Metham held the manor in the right of his wife Margaret and in 1350 leased to Roger Tickhill the meadow called Polehaugh in the fields of Henknowl on the west side of the manor of Gaunless and 1 rood of meadow called the Sykett for 4 years;

in 1353 William of Metham leased the said manor to Roger for 9 years and Roger occupied the said four pieces of land and meadow in right of the said manor;

in 35 Edward III [1361-1362] William granted the said manor by fine in the bishop's court to Roger Tickhill and Roger occupied the said pieces; in 36 Edward III [1362-1363] Roger granted the said manor by fine to William of Westley clerk and he occupied the said pieces in right of the said manor.

f.246v 19 January 8 Henry VII [1493]

Memorandum, by Thomas Shirwood, commissioned, on the advice of the soundest knights and gentlemen of the bishopric [of Durham], by Mr Chyney before leaving Durham, for the variance between the prior of Durham and the freeholders of Lanchester and townships in the vicinity, that it was thought that the prior should have three hopes, Horsleyhope, Hisehope and Baldinghope, as his freehold in severality; that the freeholders of Lanchester and other townships should have their common on the east side of those hopes, with any of their beasts escaping into any of the hopes being chased out by the prior's servants; that the prior should not overuse the common on the east side; that the prior should use his common on the north and west side of the said hopes in accordance with his evidences; that those guilty of trespasses against the prior in the said hopes should submit to God and St Cuthbert and the prior to grant them his favour, with confirmation at the assizes; that the note of this remained with Mr Chyney and was agreed to by the prior on the advice of his council; that Mr Chyney sent a priest to Robert Tempest to come over on the 12th day last past to give an answer.

f.267r-268r [After Wessington succeeded Hemingbrough as prior in 1416; probably 1425 x 1440, i.e. between the deaths of Ralph Neville and of his wife Joan.]
Grievances, addressed to Joan [Beaufort] countess of Westmorland by John [Wessington] prior of Durham, caused by the tenants of Whitworth to the church of Durham.

First that the tenants of Whitworth exclude the prior's tenants from common pasture in certain places belonging to the vill of Whitworth contrary to the charter by John of Whitworth lord of Whitworth: 3.13.Spec.20 (recited).

Second that against the prior's will the tenants of Whitworth occupy acres of land in Spennymoor leased for 20 years by the prior's predecessor to John Hoton of Tudhoe for 6s. 8d. a year, which John enclosed with field of Whitworth

Lease for 20 years, by John [of Hemingbrough] prior of Durham, to John Hoton of Tudhoe, of 20 acres of land lying together on Spennymoor at the Broomlaw beside Whitworth, for 6s. 8d. a year, with the prior entitled to re-enter after 40 days arrears, and with John Hoton free to enclose the land as a single close and surround it with a dike.

Dated: Monday before Annunciation 3 Henry IV [20 March 1402]

Third that the tenants of Whitworth newly enclosed with a dike a piece of the prior's land on Spennymoor near the land leased to John Hoton.

Fourth that the tenants of Whitworth used to pay rent for pieces of the prior's land on Spennymoor but now they occupy them with other lands of the prior throughout the year

Fifth that the tenants of Whitworth and others broke down a close and building of the prior in Kirk Merrington.

Memorandum of divisions between Cowherd lands and the prior of Durham's lands in Middleleys beside Aldingrange, etc.

The prior has by grant of Roger Cowherd two parcels of selions and Richard Cowherd, by the inheritance of his wife Euphemia, another two parcels, of the same measure, lying together as one large piece in Middleleys but intermingled and marked by old stones called doulestanez, with the four parcels abutting at the north end partly on Doveleys and partly on the lower field of Aldingrange, and at the south end on the field of Broom between the corner of Richard's close called Broomfieldclose on the west side and the prior's ancient fish-pond on the east side;

the prior has 4 selions, containing an acre, running north- south in the field of Broom at the head of the said selions, between John Fossor's close on the east and another acre of Richard Cowherd on the west, but between Richard's land on three sides, with Richard's acre between the prior's land on two sides;

the upper field of Aldingrange, below the field of Broom and beside Baxterfordwood contains in length north-south 35 perches and in width, from that wood to the west side of the fish-pond, 92½ perches: 22 acres 20 perches;

the lower field beside Baxterfordwood and abutting the Browney contains north-south 31 perches and east-west 52 [perches]: 10 acres 12 perches;

the field beside Aldingange manor contains 8 acres 1 rood 32 perches;

the selions where the aqueduct and [coal]pits are newly made contain north-south 43 perches and east-west on the north side 11 perches 3 ells: 3½ acres 2 perches;

the knoll beside Aldingrange contains 1½ acres 7 perches; the selions on the west side of the prior's land contain east-west on the north side perches and south side 26 perches, and north-south about the middle 37 perches: 7½ acres 10 perches or 6½ acres 33 perches.

Total: 57 [acres] 1 rood claims by the prior against William Cowherd, amounting to 51s. 10d., for waste of coal, for hauling coal at/for/to [?: ad] a "shafte" of the prior and for licence for hauling and mining there, and for occupying 3 acres for 4 years;

the prior and the said Richard [Cowherd] each have 4 selions containing an acre in the field of Broom between the closes of Richard on the west and John Fossor on the east, the prior's next to Richard's close and abutting Richard's land, and Richard's beside John Fossor's close and abutting at the north end on the prior's land, with both acres abutting John Fossor's dike at the south end;

the prior has 4 selions containing an acre in the field of Broom between Richard's land on both sides and abutting on Richard's land at north end and on John Fossor's dike at the south end, and the said Richard has another 4 selions containing an acre;

measurement and division of the lands of the prior of Durham by grant of Roger Cowherd and the lands of Roger's son Richard Cowherd in Middleleys Aldingrange: 8 selions, containing [blank], lying for the most part north-south between lands of Richard on both sides and abutting Doveleys to the north and a corner of Broomclose to the south;

Richard has another 8 selions of the same measure; the prior has another 8 selions divided into 16 in the same field between lands of Richard on both sides, and partly abutting Doveleys and partly the lower field of Aldingrange to the north and to the south Richard's whole acre and part of John Fossor's close in the upper field of Broom; Richard has another 8 similar selions in the same piece running north-south between land of the prior on both sides; the prior has 4 selions containing 1 acre in the upper field of Broom running north-south between Broomclose on the west and an acre of Richard on the east, and abutting Richard's land to the north and John Fossor's dike to the south. Copy of 1.7.Spec.45, the original of which does not survive.
