Form of citation

Material in the Sudan Archive is given a reference number, which is unique across the collections of papers. Usually it is not necessary to give the name of the person or organisation within which collection the item is found, although it may be convenient to do so.

The short form of citation should be GB-0033-SAD.reference number

Most printed references take the form: SAD.reference number .

To order items in the searchroom, use the collection reference code(s), derived by removing the repository code (GB-0033-), followed by the reference number. Citing the section of the finding aid is useful.

1. Official Papers

SAD.192/5/28-29 [1949]

Notes by Tibbs in English and Arabic relating to criminal court case procedure. Found within front cover of Tibbs' copy of The Penal and Criminal Procedure Codes of the Sudan (SC 14749).

Series of printed symbols used to identify candidates in the 1953 Sudan elections

2. Abyei Boundary Dispute

The Abyei area covers 4,000 square miles of desert, farmland, and oil fields located along the border between Sudan and South Sudan. Abyei is claimed by both countries and has been a source of conflict for over 50 years. The Abyei Boundary Commission was established after the Comprehensive Peace Agreement, between the Government of Sudan in the north and the Sudan People's Liberation Movement/ Army in the south, to "define and demarcate the area of the nine Dinka Chiefdoms transferred to Kordofan in 1905". The Commission included experts and representatives of the local communities and the local administration. When the Commission set the boundary lines in 2005 the Sudan People's Liberation Movement/ Army refused to accept them. The case was taken to the Permanent Court of Arbitration in the Hague in 2008 for settlement. The court delivered its final verdict in July 2009.
