Contents

Papers relating to the family of William Van Mildert, bishop of Durham.

VMP 1-1334 formerly belonged to William Van Mildert, Bishop of Durham 1826-1836, or his nephew Cornelius Ives, Rector of Bradden 1818-1883. They were kept by the family at Bradden House, Towcester in Northamptonshire until 1973 when Arnold Bradshaw, Vice-Master, and afterwards Master, of Van Mildert College in the University of Durham, arranged for their transfer to Durham by Mr Edward Grant-Ives. In July 1989 they were deposited in the Archives and Special Collections section of Durham University Library at Palace Green.

The documents are divided into 8 sections:

I: 1-86 Early Family Papers

II: 87-155 William Van Mildert, Rector of St Mary le Bow, Canon of Christ Church and Regius Professor of Divinity at Oxford, 1788-1820

III: 156-317 William Van Mildert, Bishop of Llandaff and Dean of St Paul's, 1819-1826

IV: 318-586 William Van Mildert, Bishop of Durham, 1826-1836

V: 587-611 William Van Mildert, manuscript notes, lectures and sermons

VI: 612-624 William Van Mildert, printed works: sermons and proof copies of Van Mildert's edition of the works of Daniel Waterland

VII: 625-704 Printed works belonging to William Van Mildert and his nephew Cornelius Ives. These include some early 19th century printed maps covering areas under Van Mildert's jurisdiction in his various offices

VIII: 705-1334 Sermons and miscellaneous papers of Cornelius Ives 1793-1883, Rector of Bradden from 1818. Many of these were taken from collections of sermons written by various ecclesiastical figures, but some were tailored to contemporary events

Items of particular interest include:

A Letter Book containing copies and drafts of letters written by Lawrence Womock (1612-1686), chaplain to Lord Paget, afterwards Bishop of St David's (1);

Early 19th century recipes and prescriptions (18-84);

William Van Mildert's "Journal of a tour of the Netherlands 1792" (89);

Papers relating to the amendment of the Clandestine Marriages Act June 1823 (203-215), and Catholic Emancipation 1829 (510-540);

Accounts relating to Van Mildert's positions as Canon of Christ Church, Bishop of Llandaff and Dean of St Paul's, including accounts for repairs at St Paul's Deanery House (Sections II & III);

Papers concerning the Entertainment given by Van Mildert to the Duke of Wellington at Durham Castle, 3 October 1826, including details of arrangements, invitations, costs and receipts (328-506);

Correspondence concerning Lord Brougham's attempt to influence the composition of the Commission of the Peace, February-April 1831 (550-577).

VMP 1335-1476: form another group of papers from the same source, relating to the family of William Van Mildert, bishop of Durham (1826-1836). Legal, administrative and estate papers, letters etc. of the Van Mildert family. Notes, sermons, verses and one printed item by Bishop Van Mildert, and some correspondence. Material relating to Daniel Waterland (theologian, 1663-1740, whose works were edited by Van Mildert).

The third group documents the work of Arnold Bradshaw attempting to trace information on the Van Mildert family.

William Van Mildert (1765-1836), bishop of Durham (1826-1836), was born 6th November 1765 in Southwark, the son of Cornelius Van Mildert (1722-1799), gin distiller, and his wife, Martha, née Hill (1732-1804). Cornelius Van Mildert was the great-grandson of an Amsterdam merchant who migrated to London around 1670, Martha the daughter of William Hill of Vauxhall, Surrey, merchant and financier. Van Mildert studied at the Merchant Taylors' School, and Queen's College, Oxford, 1784-90. Ordained priest in 1789, in 1790 he became curate of Witham, Essex where he met Jane (1760-1837), daughter of General Douglas, who he married in 1795. In 1795 Van Mildert was given the living of Bradden, Northamptonshire, by Cornelius Ives, his cousin and brother-in-law; in 1796, he became chaplain to the Grocers' Company and rector of St Mary-le-Bow, Cheapside, London. In London he joined the high-church campaigning group the Hackney Phalanx, served as treasurer of the SPCK 1812-15, gave the Boyle lectures of 1802-5, was preacher of Lincoln's Inn, 1812-9, Bampton lecturer in 1814, and in 1823 published a ten-volume edition of the works of Daniel Waterland.

In 1813 he became regius professor of divinity at Oxford and a canon of Christ Church, bishop of Llandaff May 1819, declined the archbishopric of Dublin in 1820, instead becoming dean of St Paul's in commendam with Llandaff, and in 1826 Van Mildert became bishop of Durham. Charles Thorp, Archdeacon of Durham, and Van Mildert worked towards the creation of a university at Durham: The Durham University Bill passed in July 1832 and the university admitted its first students in October 1833.

Van Mildert's wife suffered a stroke in 1833 and died in 1837. Van Mildert died at Auckland Castle, 21 February 1836. Shortly afterwards the bishopric was stripped of its palatine status and the remnant of its ancient secular powers, leaving Van Mildert with the common soubriquet "last of the prince bishops".

Accession details

VMP 550-564 2 February-20 April 1831

Correspondence between Lord Brougham Lord High Chancellor, the Bishop of Durham and the Bishop of Bristol regarding the list of magistrates for the new Commission of the Peace. Concerns:

doubts expressed by Lord Brougham, as to the suitability of John Douse Garthwaite, on the grounds that he had once been tried by court martial. Lord Brougham's request for the inclusion of Sir Cuthbert Sharpe of Sunderland, William Bell of Sunderland Esq. coalfitter, William Williamson of Whitburn Esq., Henry Morton of Lambton Esq. agent to Lord Durham, John Buddle of Penshaw Esq., agent and coal viewer to Lord Londonderry, and Henry Stobart of Pelaw Esq. colliery viewer; Bishop Van Mildert's reluctance to include more names, particularly of persons closely associated with the coal owners lest the pitmen should suspect bias in the magistracy in any difference between them and their employers; and Lord Brougham's subsequent withdrawal.

15 letters, copies and drafts

VMP 565-577 12-18 April 1831

Letters from local magistrates protesting against the Lord Chancellor's intervention regarding the composition of the Commission of the Peace; expressing fears lest the inclusion of agents of the coal owners should become a precedent and that the Bench should lose the appearance of impartiality in disputes between pitmen and their employers. ### Sermons

The following sermons are all contained in homemade notebooks consisting of three or four sheets folded and sewn together. The title and author or origin of each sermon are written on the front cover, with the text and the years when the sermon was given on the inside. The Rev. Ives adopted a simple code for his sources in which all the consonants of the author's name were followed by the vowels. The names have been reconstructed in the following list.
